

gjenstander og -spille med kultur

We propose a living building, organized by living membranes, each designed to inform, intrigue and draw visitors into as deep an experience as they desire.

This building is a decision-making structure that catalyzes new understandings about enjoying and making great culture.

Creating great things requires crossing boundaries, passing through membranes, thresholds of thought.